

Pillars of Door County

We live in a community that is unique unto itself. Many travel here and find it a paradise. We are basically a rural community with a small population of around 30,000. Like any other community, Door County has social needs that go beyond its resources. We are farmers, artists, retirees, manufacturers, business owners, laborers, waitresses, shipbuilders and others. This diverse culture is built around a strong sense of community.

The early Door County community was built by determined immigrants that entered a veritable wilderness with no social support. A tradition was built around caring for family and friends. One doesn't need to be a lifelong resident to soon realize the caring tradition. Door County is truly a special place to live.

What makes a certain portion of that diverse population become "Pillars of our Community"? What is a Pillar of the Community, you ask?

United Way of Door County wants you, our Leadership Circle donors, to be seen as true Pillars of our Community. We hope that the community will take a closer look at who we are and reflect on those that truly take the lead in our community to care for neighbors and friends, you our Leadership Circle donors.

Why do people become Pillars? What motivates you to care for your neighbors by contributing financially? What makes you stand apart?

Maybe it's because of one or more of the following:

- A basic caring for your neighbors that might be less fortunate,
- A family history of caring,
- A belief that addressing social issues will support a safer, more caring community,
- You want to pay forward to a community that has been so good to you,
- It just feels good to help others, or
- You want to be a part of the tradition of this very special place you live and/or visit.

Whatever your motivation, you truly are a Pillar of Door County with your support to United Way of Door County. You, our Leadership Circle donors, contributed 65% of the total United Way giving during our 2010 campaign. Thanks for all you do to make this a better county to live in.

Please remember United Way of Door County in your will.
